PRESS RELEASE

June 9, 2010

Recent unfortunate events in the Gulf have brought unprecedented attention to oil spill clean up and remediation methods. Many solutions are being offered. Universal Remediation, Inc. of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, as one of the leaders in the bioremediation industry, has been at the forefront of this clean up effort. Universal Remediation offers various patented and patent-pending bioremediation products such as those sold under the trademarks BIO-BOOM® and PRP®. These trademarks are protected by federal registrations and are considered proprietary to Universal Remediation.

Universal Remediation has recently discovered that certain third parties are making unauthorized use of these trademarks in an attempt to usurp the goodwill which Universal Remediation has developed through its considerable marketing and sales efforts. Universal Remediation will continue to take the necessary steps to enforce its rights against any unauthorized uses of its intellectual property.

Universal Remediation provides this information as a service to its many loyal customers and distributors. Do not be fooled by imitators. Please ensure that your bioremediation products are being sold by Universal Remediation or one of its authorized dealers. We thank you for your continued support.
